Harper Meyer Perez Hagen O'Connor & Albert's aviation practice encompasses virtually every aspect of aviation law. Our attorneys have represented financial institutions, leasing companies, airlines, and aviation-related businesses in aircraft and airline acquisition, finance and leasing matters, general corporate, and commercial and operational matters. We are familiar with the laws and regulations administered by the Federal Aviation Administration as they relate to U.S. and foreign aircraft registration, operations and transfer matters including foreign beneficial ownership of U.S. registered aircraft, tax and bankruptcy implications, air carrier certification, airworthiness requirements, insurance aspects, and attachment procedures and other litigation-related aspects of the practice. Beyond the U.S., our lawyers have represented a number of foreign certificated airlines and have extensive experience in aviation transactions in virtually every country in Latin America and throughout the Caribbean, as well as Canada, England, Ireland, France, Taiwan, Nepal, Jordan, and elsewhere in Europe. Our lawyers have over seventy years of combined experience in the aviation industry and have assisted clients in the U.S., Canada, the Caribbean, Latin America and Europe with all aspects of their transaction aviation needs, both complex and routine, foreign and domestic. Our firm has represented lenders, airlines, manufacturers, high-net worth individuals, flight departments and suppliers in connection with the acquisition, sale, structuring (including tax), financing and leasing of private and commercial aircraft, engines and aircraft parts.

Harper Meyer welcomes the opportunity to speak with you regarding our experience, and to discuss how our firm may be of service to you.
